Risky Business: Profitizing Child Care

Friday, May 17, 2024 from 12 noon (EDT) to 1:30 pm

Hear speakers from Canada, USA and England in a new Care Economy on-line forum. Catch up with what's happening in Canada, what's happening in the US and England today and maybe here tomorrow, and what we can do about it.

What form does profitization take in Canada's Child Care sector?

Armine Yalnizyan is a leading voice on Canada's economic scene. She is the Atkinson Fellow on the Future of Workers and writes a business column for the Toronto Star. Armine's previous work includes the Canadian Centre for Policy Alternatives' Inequality Project.

What's the US experience with profitization in the Child Care sector?

Elliot Haspel is an American expert and commentator on child and family policy. His focus is on early childhood and education. He is senior fellow at the Capita think tank, and author of Crawling Behind: America's Childcare Crisis and How to Fix It with an upcoming book on childcare policy (Oxford University Press, 2025).

Are radical transformations possible in England's profitized Child Care sector?

Dr Antonia Simon is Associate Professor of Social Policy, UCL Social Research Institute, England. Her research includes childcare. She led a major research project examining the impact and reach of private sector childcare. Previously, little was known about how private childcare companies operate in England.
